About Us

Established in 1976, CommBox has been leading technology innovation for over 45 years. CommBox is an Australian designer and manufacturer of a range of powerful and intuitive interactive displays, commercial displays, educational apps, designer AV furniture, easy-to-use digital signage and device management software.

CommBox products are approved for Australian Defence and trusted by numerous education departments, government organisations and businesses.

CommBox is passionate about creating human-centric technology, so we put the CommBox Crew at the heart of our product development. The CommBox Crew is made up of end users from Australia and New Zealand from a mixture of industries and technical abilities. All our products are informed, validated and tested by the CommBox Crew before launching.

CommBox collaborates with the world's leading technology partners, like Microsoft, Google, Poly, Jabra, Neat, Yealink and more to ensure every CommBox product works seamlessly in every meeting room, every time you use it.

CommBox seeks to wow customers in every moment, with a cool modern design aesthetic, superior install experience, and the ongoing support delivered by the CommBox Customer Success Team.

CommBox designs and develops with collaboration in mind helping professionals do more together than they can on their own. In every space people meet to work together, CommBox is the very best collaboration suite you can use to connect, share, present, ideate, collaborate and communicate.
